Palace in Paris 300 Years Old to Be Restored

Known as Palais Royal Where John Howard Payne Wrote "Home, Sweet Home"

When John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," wrote "Mid Pleasures and Palaces," he was living in a French palace, the Palais Royal in Paris, which is now to be restored for the International Exposition in 1937. History has it that Payne was disappointed in love during his stay in France, and that fact may have inspired the melancholy of the song.

The palace he lived in is a rectangular building enclosing an old world garden. More than 300 years old, it has had many famous Americans as well as Frenchmen within its doors. There, in the 1770's, John Paul Jones, naval hero of the Revolutionary War, called to visit the Duc de Chartres and was entertained at dinner, during which the duchess gave him a watch which had belonged to her grandfather, a naval commander, and John Paul Jones promised her an English frigate in return. When he returned to Paris later, he presented her with a sword surrendered to him by an English commander.

The Palais Royal is also a famous landmark of the days of the French Revolution. There Camille Desmoulins inflamed the people with a revolutionary speech on July 12, 1789, just two days before the mob destroyed the Bastille. Later the palace was a center of fashion, and it was there that Napoleon used to meet his friends to discuss plans for a new France.

p 'Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam, Be it ev-er so humble there's no place like home, A charm from the skies seems to hal-low us there, Which seek thro' the world is ne'er met with else-where: Home! home! sweet, sweet home,.... There's no place like home, There's no place like..... home. mf

2.

An exile from home, splendour dazzles in vain,
O! give me my lowly thatched cottage again,
The birds singing gaily that came at my call,
Give me them with the peace of mind dearer than all:
Home! home! &c.
